

On Being Me

God has told me that I was (and am) the person with the most potential - in every area of life - in history. He has told me that in this time to come - I can become the best and realize all of my dreams - in a multitude of areas - sports - education/knowledge - business - love.

The process of my life over the last 20 years has changed me. I have found happiness and joy in being precisely who I am. I do not need anyone's affirmations to make me feel good. I don't want to be the world's best racquetball, squash, tennis or short tennis player - even though I know if this was my will - God would realize it for me. I do not want to be the best hockey player or golfer or skier. Likewise. I do want to see all of the dreams God has put on my heart in the last 20 years - and even all my adult life - come to fruition. I actually can't wait to see all of this - because what it will mean for society and all of mankind is that we are living in Heaven on Earth - as God promised.

And as for love. I want to honour the love of my life and to watch on as her little boy develops to become a fine young man - James Bond - as she calls him! I want to give her many more children - twins each time - a little boy and a little girl - I want to watch and experience the wonders of God as They (Noel and Norah) raise our children to be great leaders of our time to come.

I can be anything I want to be and do anything I want to do. I want everything that God has shown me is beautiful and wonderful in this world - with no limits! But as far as my life is concerned - I want to be Ross Harvey - not Jesus Christ. I want to be surrounded by good friends and family - to engage in fun activities with my friends daily - playing sports for fun - not competition - eating and drinking and experiencing the greatest of live performances every afternoon or evening - and falling asleep with my love most every night - as we speak about our lives and how fortunate we are.

I want this for everyone - and I know you will all have it!

Wishing you peace, love and joy always...
